

I used to listen to a country music station on the radio in the car .

Where is it? Why does a city like New York with all of it's diversity not have access to a country music station? It used to provide me and many other people that I've spoken to an alternative form of music besides, pop, jass classical. I miss it and would like to have access to it again soon! Even my young children liked it!